VICTIMS OF TRAGIC CRASH AT CROSSING REMOVED TO ATHENS

Report There were Three Victims Is Proven
False

Bodies of H. B. Nelson and his wife, Frances, both 48, whose lives were snuffed out when their coupe was wrecked by a Columbus-bound Pennsylvania passenger train at the Bumgardner crossing on the Columbus Pike, three miles east of Cedarville, late Wednesday morning, were to be removed to their home at 66 Maplewood St., Athens, O., Thursday for funeral services and burial.

Possibility that there may have been a third occupant of the car was dissipated by information obtained from a brother of Nelson and a brother of his wife who came to Cedarville late Wednesday afternoon from Athens to take charge of the bodies.

Dr. R. L. Haines, Greene County coroner, who investigated the fatal accident, had learned that when Mr. and Mrs. Nelson left Athens Tuesday, intending to visit Cincinnati to look at a delivery truck which they had thought of purchasing, they were accompanied by Harry Sprague, who was to drive the truck back from Cincinnati.

Since no trace of him was found after the accident, it was assumed that he had been left in Cincinnati.

However, Coroner Haines had ascertained that if the prospective truck proved unsatisfactory Nelson, who was a prominent Athens grocer, had planned to continue to Columbus, and since he and his wife were driving toward that city when the crash occurred, it was at first presumed that Nelson had not brought a truck and that Sprague

VON LUCKNER HERE TO GIVE LECTURES

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Count Felix Von Luckner, famous German war time commander, who destroyed $25,000,000 of allied shipping without causing a loss of life, is now a man of peace and believes another war in Europe impossible.

"The Sea Devil," as he was known, is in the United States on a lecture tour recounting his war experiences. He will visit 616 cities during the next two years.

He said postwar books have brought to the world a revelation of war that is more effective than all the peace conferences that could be held.

MYERS MAKES BID FOR MODERATE VOTE

MT. VERNON, O., April 3.—Geo. Myers, Cleveland, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, made a bid for the "wet" vote of Ohio by declaring in a speech here last night that he is in favor of the sale of light wines and beer under strict government control.

Myers stated that he is not in favor of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment but that "if the people want to vote on modification, as a member of the United States Senate, I would vote for the submission of such an amendment. As a dry I have watched ten years' operation of the eighteenth amendment and the results are far from satisfactory."

PUBLISHER MUST PRODUCE BOOKS

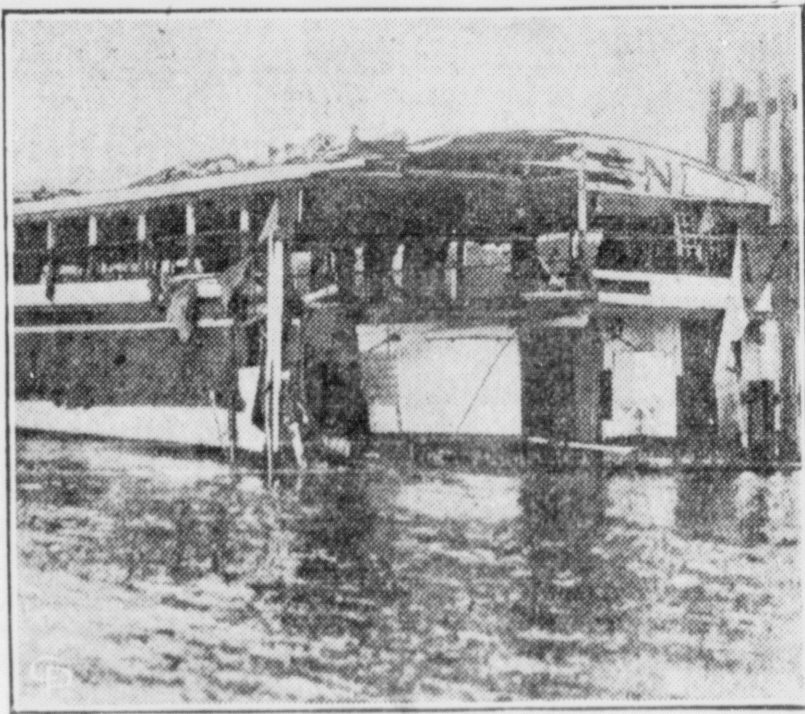

ELYRIA, O., April 3.—The first half of the $100,000 libel suits against the officials of the Lorain Journal rapidly drew to a close today following a court order demanding that David Gibson, publisher of the paper, produce the Journal's books for court examination.

Samuel Horvitz, as owner, and Gibson, as publisher of the Journal, are being sued in two $50,000 libel suits by William and Michael Peer, Lorain real estate brokers. The trial thus far has been devoted to the single case of William Peer.

PROFESSOR DIES

CLEVELAND, April 3.—A general nervous breakdown was blamed here today for the death of Mrs. Ida Leeper Shimp, professor of rhetoric and dramatics at Mount Union College, Alliance. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Ida Shimp, publicity director of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, and a son, Samuel, of Uhrichsville, Ohio.

WHERE EXCURSIONISTS LOST LIVES

Here is the Columbia river excursion boat, Swan, after it was run into by the coastwise steamer Davenport in the darkness as the pleasure boat was returning to Vancouver, Wash. Four of the 286 merry-makers are dead and four still missing. Many of the passengers were hurled into the river when the boats collided.

TWO PERISH WHEN FIRE RAZES HOME OF MINER

Father Rescues Six Then Loses Life; Flyer Gives Alarm

DUBOIS, Pa., April 3.—Two persons were burned to death and six were rescued today when fire destroyed the frame home of Joseph Thomas, Lithuanian miner.

Thomas passed four of his children over a porch roof to safety and then lost his own life in a vain attempt to save his 5-year-old son, Paul.

An unidentified night air mail pilot bound west to Cleveland swooped low and circled the flaming home with motor droning or ten minutes before awakening members of the Thomas family.

Thomas' wife, Victoria, was badly burned and injured about the body when she leaped from a second story window with an infant in her arms. The infant was the sole member of the Thomas family to escape unscathed.

Thomas swung his oldest daughter, Annie, 17, upon the porch roof from where she dropped to safety. Three other children, Albert, 13, Frank, 10, and Anthony, 9, were saved in like manner.

The frantic father then returned to the burning dwelling to rescue Paul but was overcome and died with the child in his arms.

Four of the injured were rushed to Dubois Hospital where Thomas was journeying in a critical condition.

AUSTRALIA ADOPTS HIGH LUXURY DUTY

LONDON, April 3.—A fifty per cent tax on luxury imports, representing creation of a phenomenal high tariff wall, was announced by Prime Minister J. M. Scullin today, according to a Central News dispatch from Canberra.

The super-tax will apply to virtually all imports of the luxury class, including alcohol, textiles, machinery, jewelry, musical instruments, wood, glass and drugs.

Importation of certain luxuries will be prohibited entirely, the dispatch added, while others will be rationed. Premier Scullin announced a complete list of the affected products would be made public tomorrow.

DECLARES BROKERS FINANCE REVOLTS

COLUMBUS, O., April 3.—The charge of Dr. Salomon De La Selva, exiled Nicaraguan labor leader, author, and educator that most of the Nicaraguan revolutions have been caused by "revolution brokers in Washington," today was being discussed here by those who heard the exile debate Chester Rowell, California politician and news paperman before a meeting of the Foreign Policy Club.

Selva pointed out that if the United States were to use her great supervisory power to prevent the export of ammunition to Nicaragua, it might have more effect in discouraging the internal strife.

CHARGES OF MURDER AND KIDNAPING TO BE NOLLED FRIDAY

Believe Prosecution Useless Because Of Lack Of Evidence

WOOSTER, O., April 3.—Charges of first degree murder and child stealing against Charles Hannah and Earl Conald will probably be nolle tomorrow.

This was the indication here today unless unexpected developments should suddenly arise, positively connecting either of the two men with the mysterious disappearance more than fifteen months ago of Melvin Horst, four-year-old Orrville boy.

County Prosecutor Marion F. Graven has declined to either confirm or deny the reports that the charges against Hannah and Conald will be nolle, but it was learned from a reasonably authentic source that such is his intention.

It was believed that the prosecutor considers any action against the two men would involve a useless expenditure, especially in view of the fact that the only evidence held against the accused men is a series of conflicting "confessions" and statements made by Hannah. Graven's announcement that the charges will be nolle was expected to be made tomorrow following the selection of a special venire from which jurors would be chosen to try Conald for murder.

Although reticent about discussing the reports that he will nolle the charges, Graven emphatically insisted that whatever action is taken will not stop the investigation into Melvin's disappearance.

"I intend to continue this investigation as long as I hold office," Graven declared.

Should the charges against Hannah and Conald be nolle, the Horst mystery will be back to where it started.

Substantiation of the apparent attitude of Wayne County officials in the Horst mystery investigation was translated into the resignation of Walter J. Mougey as special assistant prosecutor in the case. Mougey, in resigning, said he could not continue "under the present circumstances," but he declined to explain further.

Reports that Hannah and Conald will be freed from the Wayne County Jail where they have been held since their arrest February 13, followed the abandonment of a search for the body of the Horst boy in the Orrville Country Club pond. Search in the pond was discontinued by the latest of the many stories told by Hannah in connection with the Horst case.

HOTEL GUESTS FLEE FLAMES

Two Firemen Overcome
In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, April 3.—Two firemen were overcome and more than twenty persons were routed from the Hotel Hollenden here early today when fire broke out in the Paul Hamilton gymnasium. The blaze which gained rapid headway, threatened for a time to sweep the entire Hollenden block, located in the heart of the downtown section.

Lieut. Charles Brinsman and Fireman Thomas Mullins were overcome by the heavy clouds of smoke which poured from the building. They were carried to safety by other firemen.

The origin of the fire was not immediately determined. It broke out on the third floor of the gymnasium and spread quickly, feeding on gymnasium mats and equipment. Damage was estimated at approximately $5,000.

MUSICIANS COMPETE

OBERLIN, O., April 3.—Two thousand junior and senior high school musicians are expected to take part in the second annual Ohio State High School orchestra contest, here April 24 and 25.

LEGAL OBSTACLE TO STADIUM REMOVED

COLUMBUS, O., April 3.—A legal pitfall today had been removed from the path to the ultimate realization of the city of Cleveland's "dream" project—the construction of a $2,500,000 stadium on the lakefront there.

The Ohio supreme court refused to review the case of Andrew A. Meyer, Cleveland citizen, who had sought to enjoin the city from going ahead with the project.

The large stadium would overlook Lake Erie and would be accessible to the football teams of Western Reserve University and Case School of Applied Science. Efforts are also expected to be made to bring large intersectional games to Cleveland, such as the Notre Dame-Army game.

CLEVELAND BOOTLEG FIGHT CONTINUES AS SIXTH VICTIM SLAIN

MRS. WAGNER DIES

Germany mourns the death of Frau Cosima Wagner, widow of Richard Wagner, the great composer, at the age of 93. She died at her Bayreuth home, the Villa Wahnfried, shrine of music lovers of all nations. Frau Wagner was the daughter of Franz Liszt, another great composer, and survived her husband by forty-seven years.

COSGRAVE RETURNS TO PRESIDENCY OF IRISH FREE STATE

Policy Vindicated By Vote Of Dail In Re-election

DUBLIN, April 3.—After a brief interval of five days William T. Cosgrave returned today to the presidency of the Irish Free State executive council, his policies vindicated by the Dail's re-election.

After nine hours of debate and following the rejection of the candidates of his two strongest opponents, Eamon de Valera and Thomas J. O'Connell, Mr. Cosgrave was re-elected by the Dail Eireann by a vote of 80 to 65.

Mr. Cosgrave had resigned after the Dail had favored, by two votes, a bill to extend old age pensions, a measure the president had opposed because it would cause too great a drain on the country's finances.

Mr. Cosgrave's office of president is not like that of a president in the American sense but functions more as a premier in a parliamentary government. He is elected by, and is responsible to, the Dail.

The president selects his own vice-president and cabinet and Mr. Cosgrave was expected today to submit to the Dail names of the same men who were with him in the old cabinet.

FORMER HOLDER OF AIR RECORD JAILED

BRAWLEY, Cal., April 3.—Once the co-holder of the refueling endurance flight record, W. Mendell, Los Angeles aviator, today was held in jail in Mexicali, lower California, on a charge of conspiring to smuggle two Japanese into the United States.

His plane, the "Angeleno," in which he and "Pete" Reinhardt established the record, was confiscated by Mexican authorities. Mendell said he was the sole owner of the plane.

NEW CABINET WINS

BERLIN, April 3.—The new cabinet of Dr. Heinrich Brüning won its first fight in the Reichstag this morning, a motion of non-confidence being defeated, 252 to 187.

TEACHERS ATTEND EDUCATIONAL MEETING

COLUMBUS, O., April 3.—Thousands of Johnnies and Marys throughout the state are enjoying a two-day vacation from school today while their teachers congregated at the Ohio State University here for the tenth annual educational conference, the keynote of which was "reaching the individual."

Though the convalescence formally opened today, the peak of the attendance is expected to be reached tomorrow when some 5,000 masters of the three "R's" will crowd the campus of the university.

Four college presidents took part in the opening exercises. Robert M. Hutchins, president of Chicago University, who is the youngest man in the United States to hold such an office, addressed the delegates. He was followed by R. Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the Interior and president of Stanford University. W. O. Thompson, president

Identify Gangster's Body As Former Ohio Convict

CLEVELAND, April 3.—The sixth murder victim of Cleveland's bootleg war with-in three months was identified today as Carmello Licato, 41, who, police say, killed a Cleveland policeman, thirteen years ago. After lying unidentified all night in county morgue, the police slayer's identity was established this morning by means of fingerprints.

His body, with a bullet through the head, was dumped into the street here last night in a typical liquor feud battle.

Licato is accused by police of killing Patrolman Elmer Glafke, September 12, 1917. The officer was slain while he and Lieutenant John Welsh were searching three suspects. Glafke was shot through the head and instantly killed by the fire from Licato's gun.

Licato's two companions on the night Patrolman Glafke was murdered were Anthony Lombardo and Carmello Di Maio, according to police reports. Lombardo, who was then an unknown vagrant of Cleveland, later became one of Chicago's most notorious racketeers and first lieutenant to "Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago's beer baron. Lombardo was murdered in a gang war in Chicago in 1928.

Lombardo and Di Maio were exonerated of all blame in connection with the murder of Patrolman Glafke, and Licato, who committed the actual killing, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio State Penitentiary in 1918.

The convicted slayer was pardoned by Governor V. Donahue four years ago, and Licato was deported to Italy.

Police were informed about a month ago that Licato had returned here, but they are of the opinion that he came back more than a year ago.

It is believed that Licato was killed in retaliation for the double slaying of the two Borsellino cousins, whose bodies were found strangled to death near Brecksville, twenty miles south of here, a week ago. Cards, bearing the name of Carlos Borsellino, another cousin, were found in Licato's pockets.

NEGRO CALLED TO DOOR, MURDERED

COLUMBUS, O., April 3.—Fletcher Millsap, 45, a Negro, snatched a knock on the door of his home here last night only to have seven bullets bunched into his body by an unknown assailant, for whom police are searching today.

Millsap, the father of eight children, died instantly. Five children asleep in the room failed to hear the revolver shots. No motive could be learned by police.

The Negro was a junk yard proprietor.

CONFISCATE BOOZE

CLEVELAND, O., April 3.—Three men were arrested and six stills and thousands of gallons of alleged liquor and mash were seized by Euclid Village police here today in a raid on three houses. The liquor "dens" according to police, were believed to have been the source of supply for a large bootleg ring.

One of the highlights of the conference is expected to be the address of Dr. John H. Finley, editor of the New York Times, who will speak at the second general session tomorrow night.

DAYTON FLYER SETS ALTITUDE RECORD FOR LIGHT TYPE PLANE

Ind., forty miles to the west, and Lake St. Marys, seventy miles to the north, he said here today.

Johnson broke the altitude record for light planes yesterday afternoon when he piloted the motor glider, "Buzard," to a height of 16,000 feet. Because of extreme cold and lack of oxygen, making breathing difficult, he was forced to stop at that altitude.

Johnson believes he had previously broken the record held by a Polish flyer, some 13,000 feet, when he reached an altitude of 14,000 feet two weeks ago. Yesterday, he broke his own record.

Official witnesses for the National Aeronautic Association, L. Luzerne Custer and George B. Smith, sealed the barograph Johnson used and after the flight sent it to Washington as confirmation of the record.

DECLARE MISTRIAL IN JIMMERSON CASE; LILA SERIOUSLY ILL

Attorneys At Odds On Proposal To Plead Guilty

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 3.—Lila Jimmer, Indian girl whose prosecution for murder ended in a mistrial, today was still confronted with the problem of deciding whether she would gamble everything in a new trial or accept the district attorney's offer to plead guilty immediately to a lesser crime.

The "red lilac of the Cayugas" whose illness forced an abrupt ending of the trial as attorneys were about to make their summations to the jury will have to undergo prosecution again for the hammer slaying of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of Henri Marchand, the sculptor who was Lila's paramour.

If she recovers her health and fails to take any action on District Attorney Guy B. Moore's proposal that she plead guilty to murder in the second degree.

Such a plea would automatically do away with any chance that she would die in the electric chair, one of her attorneys, John V. Maloney, told her in urging her to accept the prosecutor's proposal. On the other hand the other lawyer assigned to her by the court, John W. Knibloe, has advised her not to plead guilty of second degree murder, which is punishable by a term of from twenty years to life imprisonment, but to take a chance that a jury might acquit her.

An amazing situation has developed between the counsel for the defense. Maloney thinks one way, Knibloe another. They have had that attitude almost throughout the case. Maloney was dead set against putting Lila on the stand and Knibloe was in favor of doing so. Now Maloney wants Lila to plead guilty to second degree murder and Knibloe is heartily against the suggestion.

Lila's condition still is serious. She is suffering from hemorrhages due to acute tuberculosis. It has been stated that she has only a year to live, at most. It probably will be some time before she leaves the hospital. In declaring a mistrial late yesterday, Judge F. Bret Thorn told the jurors that she had been examined by competent physicians who advised him that she could not appear in court for at least two weeks. He had no alternative but declare a mistrial.

RUSSIA SEEKS PACT WITH POLAND, SAID

LONDON, April 3.—Soviet Russia is anxious to negotiate a pact of security and neutrality with Poland, according to press dispatches from Moscow.

Behind this gesture of peace, state the dispatches, is a growing apprehension on the part of Russia regarding Poland's military intentions.

Poland is known to be anti-Soviet and has a treaty of alliance with Roumania, under which the former is pledged to come to the aid of Roumania in the event of a Soviet invasion of Bessarabia, the annexation of which by Roumania has never been recognized by Russia.

In addition, Poland is an ally of France and has recently concluded a commercial agreement with Germany. Moscow is said to fear that these new alignments might encourage Poland to undertake some hostile action against Russia, and, at any rate, threaten any Soviet expansion along the borders of central Europe.

DEATH BEATS PLANE

DAYTON, O., April 3.—A train and plane lost their race with death here early today when Mrs. Rufus King, wife of a prominent Dayton manufacturer, died shortly after midnight just forty-five minutes before the scheduled arrival of a Newark, New Jersey express, who had been summoned in an attempt to save the woman from the death ravages of pneumonia.

UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN NOW ACCEPT JAP TREATY

Reservations Technical
Only; Three-Power
Pact Assured

LONDON, April 3.—Complete agreement on disarmament programs was reached by the delegates of Great Britain, the United States and Japan today.

It was officially announced that the American and British representatives had accepted the reservations embodied in the Japanese rejection of the Reed-Matsudaira compromise agreement.

Acceptance of the Japanese reservations makes a tripartite naval agreement the three major naval powers of the world a certainty. If the security demands of France can now be satisfied, it is highly probable that a five-power disarmament treaty, the chief aim of the London naval conference, will materialize.

The reservations set forth in the Japanese acceptance were technical, and regarded by British and American experts as now affecting the efficacy of the compromise agreement obtained here by Senator David A. Reed, one of the leading members of the American delegation, and Tsuruo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to England.

One of the most notable features of the agreement is the decision to commence scrapping of battleships before the end of 1931. Britain will scrap five, the United States three and Japan one. Previously Japan had held out for battleship scrapping in 1934 instead of earlier.

All agreed that the three powers were free to make any claims they desire in 1935, which will be taken up in due course at the next disarmament conference.

The reservations made by the Tokyo government to the agreement, which gives Japan a virtual 70 per cent ratio in all classes of auxiliary warships, were as follows:

1. Japan reserves the right to maintain her demand for a 70 per cent heavy cruiser ratio at the next conference.

2. Japan reserves the right to lay down a certain number of new submarines in order to keep her dockyards busy, although the agreed total of 52,700 tons will not be exceeded.

3. Agreement on battleships must be considered an integral part of the compromise, and.

4. Japan will not be bound by the agreement to any point beyond 1936.

The tripartite agreement represents the first real achievement of the London conference since its convocation on January 21 of this year. Skirting complete collapse on several occasions the agreement between Britain, America and Japan is held to represent a step of prime importance in the interest of naval limitation and disarmament.

Announcement of the agreement was made following a meeting of more than an hour between the chief delegates on the part of Russia, France, Britain, America and Japan. In the meantime, it was learned authoritatively that the political negotiations aimed at satisfying France's security demands were proceeding favorably.

Mrs. H. B. McElroy was in charge of the honor roll exercises which followed the short business session. There were seventeen members of the organization who were awarded a small token for being among the highest in attendance.

NOOKS BROTHERS BROUGHT TO XENIA ON OLD INDICTMENT

Vaughn Nooks, 23, and his brother, Robert, 22, both colored, who were secretly indicted by the grand jury in October, 1929 for burglary and larceny, were arrested at Washington, Pa., and returned to Xenia Wednesday by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and L. A. Davis, county road patrolman.

The sheriff and his deputy left for Washington early Tuesday morning, apprehended the negroes in the Pennsylvania city and returned with their prisoners late Wednesday afternoon.

The Nooks brothers are accused of being implicated in the theft of ninety-six chickens from Maywood Turner, Clifton and Wilberforce Pike, September 10, 1929.

County authorities had received a tip that the stolen chickens were to be delivered to the home of Oliver Warwick, Columbus Pike, and they had the residence under observation when it is alleged the Nooks brothers drove to his home.

The colored men abandoned the car when the officers were sighted and escaped but the chickens were recovered and Warwick was charged with receiving stolen property. The chickens were being delivered to Warwick, authorities claim.

A secret indictment against the brothers was returned by the grand jury and they were eventually traced to Washington, Pa., where they have been working in a coal mine. They offered no resistance to arrest and did not attempt to fight extradition to Ohio.

They are expected to be arraigned on the burglary and larceny charges Thursday.

Rinsol is all you need—even in hardest water. No bar soaps, chips, powders, softeners. Rinsol gives twice as much suds, cup for cup, as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Rich, lasting suds.

And Rinsol is safe for your finest linens. Clothes last longer, for they don't need to be scrubbed threadbare.

YOUTHFULNESS and BEAUTY are dependent upon a strong body—firm flesh—a clear skin

NOTHING is more beautiful more inspiring, more glorified than the supreme manifestation of Nature in the human body. Those sparkling eyes, that clear skin, that firm flesh, and that vigor of action denoting vitality, bespeak loveliness and internal healthfulness.

And so, it is not our birthright to be masters over our own bodies? To be sure not much is said openly about personal handicaps—skin blemishes—sallow complexion—poor health—but secretly they influence many important affairs.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin blemishes, lack of appetite, flabby flesh and loss of energy as an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

This is why so many thousands, seeking youthfulness and beauty, have taken a course of S.S.S. It helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Without plenty of rich, red-blood-cells there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men or beautiful, healthy women.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

TRANSFORMED, NOT CONFORMED—And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God. — Romans 12:2.

FUTURE HIGHWAYS

Although we may not agree with all the figures, with some of the predictions or with other ideas which officials of the American Road Builders' Association recently announced following a survey of highway conditions and possibilities completed by that body, there is much of interest in the report to residents in all Ohio cities.

Here's what the builders' association has to say:

Promiscuous building of super-highways is shown to be ill-advised in the summary of traffic statistics dealing with highway planning.

Instead, the association finds need of greater activity over the entire net-work of the nation's roads, with all construction preceded by a careful survey of the present traffic facilities and its future requirements.

Regional planning is urged for all centers of traffic density. Such planning would indicate whether present roadways should be reconstructed to great width, or whether the construction of more arterial highways over new routes would be most advisable.

Over the majority of state and county highway mileage, a two-lane surface, of 20-foot width, is thought to offer adequate provision for traffic of the next ten or fifteen years. A right-of-way of 100 feet is favored and this would permit of eventual widening of the traveled way.

It was found that the necessity does not exist at the present time for the construction of systems of wide highways throughout the country. Except in comparatively small areas, such volumes of traffic do not now exist and will not during the next fifteen or twenty years, at least.

In a state as a whole there is no necessity, therefore, of planning an ultimate right of way in excess of 100 feet or a roadway surface width in excess of 40 feet whether a single or dual strip pavement is involved. On the great majority of the mileage, for a long period of years, even these widths will not be required.

This statement is based on the existing traffic and predicted future traffic on the state and county highways of Wisconsin, the northeastern section of Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine. The highways in these areas form a cross section of the highway and traffic conditions in all states.

Four years ago in Ohio there were approximately 11,000 miles in the state highway system of which only 131 miles were carrying more than 2,500 vehicles per day, including passenger cars, motor trucks and motor buses. The same relative conditions are found in other areas.

The proportionate mileage carrying a volume of traffic requiring extraordinary pavement widths and design is limited to comparatively small areas, around the larger cities.

If the traffic trends based upon the last twelve years are any indication of future growth it can be safely said that on the bulk of the state and county highway mileage, during the next ten or fifteen years construction can be largely confined to the provision of two-lane surfaces.

A two-lane surface, twenty feet wide, will carry 8,000 vehicles a day at a speed of thirty miles an hour. These figures take into consideration the normal amount of motor truck and motor bus traffic and are based upon actual research studies dealing with traffic volume, traffic speed, and pavement width.

Pavement widths are thought of in terms of traffic lanes with general agreement on the 10-foot lane as standard. Odd numbers of lanes are falling into disfavor.

A little of the optimism that is being used to rescue business from the doldrums, applied to the London conference, would perhaps rescue disarmament from despair.

What a pity it is that there is no way to bring to justice those who prevent the enactment of effective criminal statutes and so encourage crime.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

NO ENDS OF THE EARTH

There are no ends of the earth. The telephone hooked up with the radio has brought them close. Today you can talk on short notice from your house or office to practically any country in Europe. The United States is connected with 85 per cent of the telephones of the world. Many of us may live to see all the telephones of the world linked in one system.

SPEED

If you were to characterize the age we live in by one word, what word would come the nearest to expressing all there is to be said about it? Of course no one word will do. Perhaps the closest word is "speed." For instance, there was a marriage ceremony performed in Denver a few days ago and the ritual consisted of just one word. The preacher said "married," and the couple went on their way. Attorneys agree the ceremony is legal.

ON OUR WAY

Speaking of speed, how much of our thought and energy are devoted to going somewhere, getting somewhere, rushing somewhere. We are crazy, a lot of us at least, on the subject of transportation. The advertising that attracts us the most is the advertising of things that go fast. A whole nation is fascinated by any man who will risk his life to travel more than 200 miles an hour in racing car or airplane. We are ready to worship speed and speedsters.

FACING THE WRONG WAY

Paul Morand, French novelist, shocks American critics who think we in the United States furnish but a poor imitation of the things that make Europe desirable. Morand says those looking for culture and the gentle art of living are wasting their time in Europe when these things are much easier to be found in New York. New York, and he might well include many other places in America, is the place, according to this thoughtful Frenchman, where the present generation can lead a "superior life." It will be interesting to many to note that Mr. Morand defines a superior life as comprising good manners, picture galleries, Parisian frocks, the enjoyment of conversation, attendance at good plays, the knowledge of good times, and the strategy of love.

Well, well, this is doubtless true. No one need have a dull time in America. Much more likely to be dull abroad. But as to his definition of a superior life — that is something else.

Only One Ex-President
How many ex-presidents of the United States are now living? If any, who are they?

With the death of William Howard Taft on March 8, 1930, Calvin Coolidge became the only living ex-president.

The Movies
Will you kindly give me the number of motion picture theaters there are in the United States and what the attendance is.

The film boards of trade estimate that there are now 22,624 motion picture theaters operating in the country, and that the attendance is approximately 2,000,000 each week.

PASS IT ON
NEW YORK CITY, New York —

After receiving a triumphant vindication from the Appellate Division of the United States Circuit Court, Mrs. Dennett has now issued her volume, "Who's Obscene" (Van-gard), in which she reprints the famous pamphlet, "The Sex Sides of Life," that caused her indictment and conviction.

(The most conscientious educators of youth in this country have placed Mrs. Dennett's pamphlet in the hands of their young charges. Don't miss this little book. And when you have glanced over it yourself pass it on to Junior as a moral prophylactic.)

BIOSHING THE ANTE

Now that there's a lull in the contest among Manhattan's Lords of the Loftiest Towers, the Banking Bays are adding to the gaiety of nations by locking horns in a titanic struggle for the Mastery of Mazuma.

The Chase National Bank, merging with two other financial institutions, proudly chalks up on the Barn Door of Fame, resources amounting to two billion eight hundred million more than the sources of the National City Bank. And before the merger the National City was cock of the walk.

If you know anything about New York bankers—and here's hoping you don't—you know right off the bat what's going to happen.

The National City crowd will probably come across in a couple of months, see that six hundred million, jacking the pot up past the three billion mark. Then Chase will counter with another slight elevation.

But, as George Peck, the Sage of Grassmere, would say: "What difference does it make? It's only money!"

You remember Stelling's. . . . His sole equipment was a short, thin, red, to one end of which was attached a fragment of tissue paper

THE CANADIAN RE-MOUNTED POLICE

FAILURE OF NAVAL PARLEY FORESEEN

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—No gift of prophecy is required to see in advance that international negotiations like the London naval conference are almost sure to fail.

A country which is not afraid of some other country does not need to ask the latter to limit its armaments before limiting its own. Such a request, in itself, is equivalent to an admission that the country which makes it is afraid to cut down unless the other cuts down, too.

Hence, when five sea powers' representatives meet to discuss limitation of their navies, the very fact that they do so proclaims their suspicions of one another.

Each delegation is after all the advantages it can get for the country it represents.

It genuinely desires all around reduction, to save money—but it wants to maneuver the representatives of some rival (or potential rival) power into agreeing to a greater reduction than it is willing to promise in behalf of its own home land.

Each of the countries which sent delegations to London is not jealous of all the other four, but each is jealous of at least one of the others. These jealousies, criss-crossing, involve all five.

Experienced diplomats (unless they actually want war, which sometimes is the case, but not now) do not like peace conferences overly well. Their theory is that they tend to make latent, subconscious jealousies and suspicions acute, and obvious to everyone; therefore worse.

This was the best illustrated in London by developments between France and Italy.

These two countries had not thought of one another as maritime rivals before the conference began. Early in the negotiations, however, it was revealed that English reduction was hampered by Gallic sea strength. Would the French curtail?

on a string. The paper was tied in the middle, its ends flaring like a butterfly's wings. He held the reed in his left hand, back of his waist, the paper dangling a few feet in front of his nose. Round and round he spun in a futile endeavor to capture the paper, adroit and graceful as a kitten.

He'd finally let it drop to the sawdust and belly down he'd creep toward it while several hundred men, women and kids, in that particular sector, oblivious of all else around them, breathlessly followed his little advance.

Little old Fred Stelling's in his white suit with the big red dots, hiding behind his mouse-colored clown hat, from a tissue paper butterfly in the sawdust of a circus ring, just as he had hidden all the years from Father Time.

A year or so ago I ran across the following newspaper paragraph carrying a Philadelphia date line:

"Fred Stelling's who, as a star clown of Pinging Brothers Circus for many years, made millions laugh, died today in the Philadelphia General Hospital, with no one to claim his body."

Personality

There is a new book on the press by Doc Willie S. Walsh called "Cultivating Personality." Have you got it? If not, why not? Plain talks on what to say and do, by a Psychologist.

The last weak-chinned sap who tried to acquire Personality from a printed book, merely succeeded in developing a streak of impertinence, that eventually earned from a sock on the nose.

Bulling a Boob on his Personality is as cruel as peddling a fake cure for cancer. One is a body blow. The other is a raid on the spirit—and they're both below the belt.

they were asked; which reminded them, for the first time, that they could not do so very well, Italy being so strong. "Strong!" exclaimed the Italians. "Not nearly strong enough—now you mention it. We must start warship building." "Against us?" cried the French. "Whom else?" replied the Italians. And today French and Italian newspapers positively are weighing the possibilities of war.

That none of the groups of London conferees represented an unadulterated national peace sentiment was patent even before they left for the British capital; otherwise their respective governments' already would have closed up their various war and navy departments and ministries without waiting to consult together.

Doubtless they showed their practical horse sense by refraining from doing so.

Nevertheless it did not indicate a 100 per cent peace determination.

Briefly, all the delegations, with all their governments and peoples behind them, without exception were more or less insincere from the outset.

They all knew it before they got to London.

They probably did not confess it even to themselves, but a considerable admixture of insincerity was inherent in the situation.

Prime Minister MacDonald might have been an exception, but he is a good many generations ahead of his time. It is hard to believe that the President Hoover was fooled much; he hoped for the best doubtless.

A peace conference, until the world is ready for peace, is like rubbing liniment on the outside, in an attempt to cure an internal cancer.

Indeed, the liniment is irritating. The only thing to do is to take out as much of the thing as possible with a soothing lotion, in the form of a make-believe peace pact, and wait until a real cancer cure is discovered.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Stuffed Pork Chops
Escalloped Cabbage Waldorf Salad
Hot Whole Wheat Rolls
Cocoanut Cream Pudding
Tea or Coffee

Don't think I forgot to put potatoes in the foregoing menu. I left them out on purpose, thinking that the housewife would be glad to cook a dinner once in awhile that did not include this very worthy vegetable.

Today's Recipes

Stuffed Pork Chops—Six thick pork chops, one cup stale bread crumbs, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-half onion, minced, one-half teaspoon poultry seasoning, two tablespoons water, one tablespoon chopped parsley. Have the butcher cut a pocket in the chops. Make a stuffing with the other ingredients and stuff chops with it. Put into a slightly-greased casserole and brown in a hot oven, 500 degrees, for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate 350, add enough water to cover bottom, cover casserole, and bake one hour.

Escalloped Cabbage—One-half head cabbage, chopped coarsely and cooked till tender, one-half pound American cheese, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, three-fourths cup buttered bread crumbs. Place well-drained cabbage in a buttered casserole dish. Place the milk and cheese in the top of double boiler and cook slowly till cheese is melted. Season and pour over cabbage. Sprinkle with crumbs; brown in a moderate oven. The cheese may be omitted or only enough used to sprinkle on top with crumbs. In that case add one tablespoon butter to milk.

Living Clothing

Removing the odor of tobacco smoke from garments is often a difficult problem, especially in the case of dresses made from delicate material which would suffer from wind and sun.

One method is to employ the blower attachment of an electric cleaner. The blower should be placed inside the garment so that it will blow through the material.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

A TRICK WORTH KNOWING

The elder Dragon-Fly often said more than his prayers, but the younger flyer did not know it. Peter's particular friend made a motion as though he were about to rush upon the fallen flyer. Young Dragon-Fly shrieked with horror. "Please don't hurt me, cousin," begged he. "I have been a very foolish insect, but I will never boast again. I promise." The elder Dragon-Fly winked at Peter, who stood ready to come to the youngster's defense if it became necessary. But that wink told him he need not worry.

"Very well, young fellow, I will overlook your bad manners this time," said the elder Dragon-Fly. "But don't let me hear any bragging in the future. And to make sure you learn your lesson well, as soon as you have caught your breath I will race you. I shall win, of course. You must make up your mind to that, for might is right in insectland, and I am stronger than you are. But besides taking the conceit out of you, I can show you a trick or two that every good flyer must master, sooner or later."

"What sort of a trick?" All interest, the young flyer forgot his fear and picked himself up off the ground. "Wait and see," said the elder Dragon-Fly. "If you watch me and do what I do, you will be glad of what I teach you. When I was a young lad—" The elder Dragon-Fly paused and looked into the distance. "Yes, yes, go on," cried Peter, who scented a story. "Well, I was skimming over the happy hunting grounds when a big bird spied me. Just in time I felt a breeze on my tail and turned to find his open mouth scarcely a beak's length behind me. Twist and turn away before he could quite make up his mind in what direction I was going. Thanks to grand-father, I knew a trick or two of that kind."

"Teach me to be as wise as you are, cousin," begged the young Dragon-Fly, who had discovered that there was much for him to learn after all.

Diet and Health

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

Answers to Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.
—Jewish Proverb.

"Dear Doctor: I am having a hard time putting my 14-month-old little girl to sleep at night. She won't fall asleep unless I lie down with her and hold her hand for about an hour or so. I have tried two or three times to break her of this habit, but she cried for about half an hour each time and I could not stand it, so I had to give in to her and hold her down with her again. I realize this is a bad habit, but how can I break her of it?"
MRS. W.

Here's another letter along the same line:

"Dear Doctor: When I put my children to bed, I turn on the hall light, which shines into their bedroom, so they will have light to sleep by, and then I turn on the radio so they can hear the music. My neighbor says children should sleep without light or noise. Which of us is right?"
"MRS. M."

The harm that comes from such artificial practices of getting a child to go to sleep, is the dependence the child acquires for them, and the very great inconvenience to the mother, especially in the case of lying down and holding hands. You should both put your children to sleep in darkened rooms, without music or hand holding.

It is going to take more than two evenings to break your child of the habit, Mrs. W., but you must persist. Just reason with her you cannot continue to lie down with her, for you haven't the time and it isn't good for her; and you are sorry, but it cannot be helped and she will have to go to sleep by herself, etc.

As I told you many times, in similar cases of habit breaking, better warn your neighbors so they won't think you are cruel. We have a list of books on the general care and feeding of children which can be obtained by following column rules.

Mrs. M.: I'm sorry, but I cannot advise you what to do for the fibroid tumors in your uterus. You will have to go to a surgeon in whom you have confidence, and rely on his judgment. Surgery has to be used for the large fibroids, but I know the X-rays and radium are used in many cases for the small ones (depending upon their position in the uterine tissue.) Fibroids are very common after 45, and if they are small they usually disappear after the menopause.

The course of X-ray treatments brings on your artificial menopause, and the fibroids shrink as they would at the normal time. If they are causing excessive hemorrhage, with its dangers, your physician might advise removal by surgical means.

If you don't know the competent physicians in your locality, ring up your county medical society and ask for a list of surgeons who specialize in women's disorders. Don't hesitate to visit more than one, Mrs. M., if the first one does not inspire your confidence, or if you prefer to have the opinion of more than one.

Mrs. F., San Francisco: You enclose ten cents for the pamphlet on Hygiene of Women, but you did not give your address, nor did you enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope, so naturally we cannot send it to you. Will you write again, please, correcting your mistake and calling attention to the fact that you omitted these before, and it will be sent you.

Tomorrow: Sassafras Tea.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following "mail charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet, ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

A woman who signs no name writes asking advice. Her husband makes fun of her, refuses to give her any money except enough for food. He insists that she go to work and he drinks. What should she do? Why do not you and your good unmarried son go away together and make a home for yourselves? Would that be possible? Your husband might appreciate the home you have kept for him and the good meals you have cooked all these years if you did that.

If that is not possible, be as patient as you can with him. Try to look as nice as you can, and don't let him "get your goat" when he makes those remarks about your looks. Pray for calmness and patience, and maybe, in time, he'll change.

K. C. M.: I think I would send the birthday greeting, if I were you, mentioning the fact that you had written and sent Christmas greetings. Be sure to write your return address on the outside of the envelope. If it is not returned to you, and you get no answer, drop the matter, as you will know he is no longer interested.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a young married woman. Have been married four years, have a young girl two. I do not love my husband or don't think I ever did. I have left him, have been away four months, and am divorcing him. Have found someone else I know I love. "Do you think, Virginia, that I'm doing right? But, dear Virginia, I love him. I didn't know what love was until now. He's never been married before. He's five years my senior. I'm 18 now.

"Please write soon and tell me if I'm doing right. My husband was awfully mean to me. He's 12 years my senior, but I think he cares for me and his baby. Please write. I'm so worried. I want my baby, too."

"WORRIED BROWN EYES." You say you have been separated from your husband for four months and are getting a divorce. Then there is no chance for you to keep the home for the baby with her own dad, is there? But let me warn you not to jump into another marriage unless you are assured that the man will be good to your baby.

THE BROKEN HEARTED WIFE: I answered your letter some time ago. I could not print the letter itself, but the answer was addressed to Broken Hearted Wife. Try not to worry about the matter. It was my impression that our husband told the little girl to say what she did, or made the story up. You KNOW you did nothing wrong. So say so, stick to it, and tell your husband he can do whatever he thinks best. There are times when men make me very tired—some men, at any rate.

DISTRESSED: The difference in ages would not matter. There is no reason why you should not be happy if you married this young man, as you seem to grow more fond of him as time goes on. Don't hurry matters. Give yourself plenty of time to get over your friendship with the older man.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

BEAUTIFUL shoulders are very important to this new loveliness we are driving for, and beautiful shoulders are strong, flexible, smooth skinned and free from bulging masses of fat. This group of exercises is excellent for the shoulder joints, too, to keep them supple and in general to strengthen flabby muscles.

I
1. Circle shoulder joint, without raising arm. Movement should come from muscles around shoulder rather than from an arm movement.
2. Circle five times in one direction, then five times in opposite direction.
3. Alternate shoulders.
4. Final exercise, circle both shoulders.

II
Stand with feet apart. Raise right arm forward to shoulder level, bend arm in at elbow, so that hand points left.
2. Straighten arm and fling sideways and backward from shoulder.
3. After five times, alternate arms.

III
1. Stand with right foot forward.
2. Place right hand on right knee and bend knee slightly, keeping left leg straight, head up, and back flat.
3. Circle the left arm vigorously, starting circle's movement forward.
4. With a ump, change the leg position, putting left leg forward and left hand on left knee.

5 Continue this in rhythm, alternating arm swinging.

IV
1. Raise arms to side, bending forearms upward from elbow, keeping forearms relaxed.
2. Rotate upper arms from shoulder joints, starting circles forward.
3. Continue in series of eight circles.

Exercise for good posture: Stand in front of a mirror while you do these exercises. It

HIGH SCHOOL PAPER SCORES SCOOP OVER BIG TOWN DAILIES

KANSAS CITY, April 3.—The Argentine, edited by the students of Argentine High School, of Kansas City, Kas., published the only interview granted by Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co., during his brief stop here.

The "scoop" over Kansas City's metropolitan newspapers was obtained by June Sails and Elizabeth Leaton, amateur reporters for the school paper, after the financial wizard had refused to be interviewed by the senior press. He was on a pleasure trip, his wife would join him at Chandler, Ariz., they would proceed to Los Angeles and then return to New York. That was all.

The student reporters, who had remained in the background, then stepped forward and avowed they were from the high school paper. Young, careless and shivering on the steps of his private car, registered interest.

"Indeed, what can I do for you?" "What about modern education?" falteringly asked Sails.

"Nothing," responded the author of the Young plan.

Sails busily scribbled in a large notebook.

"That's the way to conduct an interview," beamed Young as he noted the notebook.

Miss Leaton took a hand. "Do you play golf?" she ventured.

"No."

A pause while the embryo reporters thought. Young moved uneasily.

"What is your hobby?" one of the reporters asked.

"Now you're talking," said the financier, showing interest. "Nobody ever asks me about that. I collect old English editions and I have everything I need but Pilgrim's Progress and Caxton's Chaucer."

More silence as the high school reporters wrote in their notebooks. "Say, your climate doesn't agree with me, and I think I'll go to bed," said Young, moving away. "Anything else?" he added from the entrance to his car.

Sails moved his mouth as if to talk. But Young had disappeared inside his car. Sails turned back to the big notebook and wrote once more.

"A very nice man." The student reporters generously granted permission for the metropolitan papers of the city to print the only interview the author of the Young reparations plan granted during his pause in Kansas City.

"KONJOLA VERY MEDICINE THAT FIT MY CASE!"

Had Suffered Ten Years—All Else Tried Failed Before New Medicine Came to Rescue

"My experience with Konjola proved to me that this is, indeed, the master medicine," said Mrs. Abe Holman, 238 South Torrence St., Dayton, Ohio. "For ten years I suffered dreadfully from stomach trouble. My health was rapidly slipping away, and no matter what I did to prevent it, I failed to find the right medicine. Impurities in my system made me feel sluggish, tired and worn out. Every meal was followed by cramping pains, misery, and a feeling of heaviness in my stomach, and I had about abandoned hope of ever seeing an other well day.

"There was but one way to find out about Konjola, the medicine I heard so much about, and I decided to try it. Well, Konjola is the very medicine that fit my case! In five weeks this wonderful medicine banished all my ills. Now I eat hearty meals without the slightest distress, and simply feel great. That's why I am so enthusiastic about Konjola."

Konjola forms no habit; it contains no alcohol, nor a single harmful drug. A couple of bottles usually brings amazing relief, but a treatment of from six to eight bottles is recommended for complete and lasting results.

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia, O., at Gallaher drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. —Adv.

STATE INCOME TAX LAW CONSIDERED BY TAXATION BODY

COLUMBUS, O., April 3.—Like Uncle Sam, Ohio State University is making an official count of noses this spring.

For the first time in ten years, the university is taking a complete census of its nearly 25,000 graduates. First returns from the census have just come in.

After months of preparation, information blanks were mailed recently to all graduates of Ohio State, who at last accounts, were still alive. The blanks went to all parts of the world.

A note from President G. W. Rightmire, explaining the purpose of the census, accompanied the information blank. "The university is engaged in a great quest," Dr. Rightmire told the alumni. "It wants to know where every living graduate and former student lives, what he does, what he has been doing through the years and any other facts which enter into his life."

The information, when assembled will be carded and indexed and kept up to date, as far as possible, in the newly-established office of alumni recorder, in charge of Miss Edith D. Cockins, registrar.

POLICE WORK FAST TO RECOVER AUTO; ARREST TWO YOUTHS

Forty-five minutes after a report was received that a Star roadster, 1927 model, belonging to Charles King, 2 Home Ave., had been stolen from its parking place on Green St., police apprehended James Burden, 19, 9 Cottage Grove Ave., who is alleged to have been driving the car when he was taken into custody near Cedarville late Wednesday night.

Burden was headed off by the officers and forced into a ditch as an alternative to crashing into a truck parked on the side of the road.

A confession that he and William Earl Terrell, Center St., were responsible for the theft of a Chevrolet coach belonging to the Anderson Rent-A-Car agency last Sunday was also obtained from the youth, according to Police Chief O. H. Cornwell.

Terrell was arrested on suspicion Thursday morning and both youths are expected to be charged with auto theft when arraigned before Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith. Burden may also be prosecuted on another charge because Sheriff Ohmer Tate disclosed that a warrant for his arrest for allegedly abandoning his wife was filed Wednesday in Probate Court.

Chief Cornwell announced that nine of ten autos reported stolen since March 1 have been recovered, leaving only one car still unaccounted for, while the department has made three arrests of persons on auto theft charges during this period.

COOPER RETURNED TO PENITENTIARY

Gilbert Cooper, 50, former Cedarville trapper, convicted slayer of Caleb Hitchcock, 23, was returned to Ohio State Penitentiary Tuesday morning to serve a sentence of from fourteen to twenty years, imposed by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy after Cooper was found guilty of manslaughter. The conviction will probably not be appealed.

Pearl Hunter, 42, Springfield, recently sentenced to from one to twenty years when he pleaded guilty to the theft of an auto from H. S. Bagley, Osborn, was also taken to the penitentiary at the same time by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, who were en route to Washington, Pa., to arrest two negroes, former Xenians, on burglary and larceny charges.

FIFTEEN KILLED AND THIRTY INJURED IN BLAST OF FIREWORKS

DEVON, Pa., April 3.—Fifteen persons were believed to have been killed and thirty others are thought to have been injured today when explosions wrecked the nine one-story frame buildings of the Pennsylvania Fireworks Company along the Lincoln Highway, near here.

Nine charred bodies were recovered from the debris shortly before noon. The dead were so seriously burned, however, identification at first was impossible.

There were known to be thirty-six employees, seven of them girls, in the main plant at the time of the blasts. So far none of them has been found alive.

Ten of those believed to be dead probably perished in the central building of the company. Two of the ten were women.

The entire coterie of buildings in the fireworks plant were destroyed and six nearby residences were reported demolished.

The first blast occurred shortly after 10 a. m., following a series of minor explosions. Ten minutes later a second major blast rocked the plant, followed by a third destructive explosion five minutes later.

Cries of the injured mingled with the shrieking sirens of fire companies speeding to the scene as almost confusion resulted. Volunteers and firemen plunged into the flaming debris immediately in an effort to rescue those still alive as flames spread through the tangled wreckage.

State troopers from nearby barracks finally arrived and took charge of rescue operations. They were aided by 100 cadets who were rushed from the Valley Forge Military Academy a few miles distant.

Alexander Badaro, proprietor of the plant, is believed to have perished with his employees in the blasts.

The injured so far recovered were taken to the Bryn Mawr Hospital nearby. Extent of their injuries has not yet been determined but many are believed to be seriously hurt. Firemen, volunteers and Devon policemen are combing the debris for other bodies.

The explosions were felt over a radius of more than thirty-five miles.

Doylestown, Chester, Norristown, Bristol, Marcus Hook and other Pennsylvania cities reported slight damage from the concussions while serious damage was reported by

LIGHTHISER NOT TO RESIGN, HE CLAIMS

Reports current recently that because of continued ill health the resignation of E. E. Lighthiser as a member of City Commission is imminent, were emphatically denied Thursday by the city commissioner.

Declaring that he believes himself on the road to complete recovery, Commissioner Lighthiser announced that he has not the slightest intention of resigning and that rumors his resignation has been canvassed by other members of the commission are also without foundation.

The commissioner said that no other commissioner has approached him on the subject.

HIGH HAT A RADIO ROMANCE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

Author of "THE FLAT TIRE"

READ THIS FIRST: Elanda Lee, 20, from Jordon, Georgia, after four years in Atlanta singing in a small radio studio, goes to New York with WWBC, a hook-up. She is high-hat, and wants to sing opera. Here she meets Suwanee Collier, a charming, jolly young ukulele player. Later the son of the owner of WWBC, Gregory Du Pont, takes her in his hands over a society girl, wants Greg and Elanda's job. Her latest move is to invite Elanda to meet Lord Percival Dusenberry. Elanda forgets a date with Suwanee because she is so excited.

Greg comes as Elanda and the lord are leaving. He rushes her into the elevator before she can explain. Greg resents her interference when she teases him. Elanda is a poor little social climber with no background. He leaves in anger.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXII

Sunday afternoon, while Andree was taking her nap, Bang and Dixie went to the movies.

Elanda was stretched out on the couch reading for the fiftieth time the big Sunday story Nelson Connell had written about her, when the doorbell rang.

It was Suwanee. "Oh, hello," she greeted him casually, "where did you blow in from?"

"I was taking a walk and I thought I'd run in, where is everybody?"

"Movies," she sat down on the couch and picked up the paper again.

It wasn't a warm welcome. Suwanee felt ill-at-ease. But it was the first chance he had had to be with Elanda alone in days.

"What is so interesting that you spurn my vigorous conversation?" He sat down beside her.

"The Sunday story about me. Haven't you seen it?" She pointed proudly. "Look at that great big cut—takes up half the first page of the radio section. Nelson did a whole column story about me."

"Swell," Suwanee was genuinely enthusiastic. "Atta girl. You're coming along. Nelson is a good egg. Let me see it."

He smiled now and then as he read.

"Miss Lee is from an old Southern family that needs no introduction below the Mason-Dixon line. When she began the study of voice it was not with the idea of using it for anything more than to do a parlor trick now and then when company came."

"However, after she had studied in Berlin a year when her mother had her abroad studying German in its native element, her voice showed such promise that the prejudice against a career for the only daughter was broken down. Hence, we now hear her on the air."

"This is another case where television is needed. Miss Lee could grace the front line of any chorus. There is little doubt but that she will be the WWBC entry this year at the Radio World's Fair. And if she wins the prize as the most beautiful girl in radio and sits on the throne as Queen of the Air, don't let it surprise you."

"Whew," Suwanee whistled when he had finished. "Let me take another look at you. I'll have to write a song entitled: 'The Man Who Knew Elanda Lee. That's Me!'"

She laughed—but there was a superiority in her manner that amused him. She might have been the first girl in the world to have her picture in the paper and get a writeup. He thought he'd stick a pin into her ballooned ego. So he said:

"Nelson has a good stand-in with the editors. He has put over lots of people who weren't known at all. He made Trixie Higgins. Did you see the magazine article he had this month in 'Radio' about her?"

Elanda feigned indifference. Then the phone rang. She got up with a mysterious little smile.

"Oh, hello, Lord Dusenberry. It's darling of you to ask me. But I really can't. I'm terribly sorry. I have another engagement—Oh, now I know I'm wonderful—but I'm not that wonderful."

Then she laughed. And a little later:

"Call me tomorrow. Surely I'll have dinner with you. Love it. Oh, you're taking my breath—Bye—bye."

She hung up with a little shrug. "That was Lord Percival Dusenberry. He's giving me quite a rush. Carmel introduced me to him."

Suwanee grinned.

"Does he look anything like his name would indicate—Percy Dusenberry? Spats, monocle, weak mustache, skinny?"

"Oh," Elanda sniffed a trifle contemptuously.

temptuously. "I didn't expect you to understand my knowing a man like that."

Suwanee grinned again. "No offense, sweetness. But that is a funny name. I don't blame his highness for falling at your pretty little tootsies. I'm gaga myself. I've written a song about you."

"One of your jazz things, I suppose," Elanda picked up the paper again.

"You just bet your life," he was unperturbed. "A jazz ballad. I'm going to make money with it. Don't forget this one thing, Elanda, there are thousands of musicians in the world starving today because they won't come down to earth. If you think I'm ashamed of making a living at the sacrifice of what you call art, you're off on the wrong track."

When she didn't answer, merely shrugged and went on reading, he laughed.

"All right prima donna. Give me the ozone. But I'm going to sing it for you, nevertheless."

He went to the piano.

"The masterpiece which I am about to render for your approval is entitled: 'My Snooty Cutie.'"

Elanda raised her eyebrows disdainfully.

"Sounds like a ukulele title. And did you say it was written for me? I presume then I am the 'snooty cutie.'"

"You are," he grinned, looking

The Theater

Well, the census enumerators have started their task, and this column extends sympathy to those who have to count "noses" in Hollywood, the capital of cognomens.

For, unless he's careful, he's Collyer, Dorothea Hermans, Joan quite likely to get his names all Crawford (Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.) Lucile LeSueur; Billie Dove, Lillian Bohney; Douglas Fairbanks, Douglas Ullman; James Hall, James Brown; Buster Keaton, Joseph Francis; Lila Lee, Augusta Appel; Gwen Lee, Gwen Lepinsky; Bessie Love, Juanita Horton; Mae Murray (Princess Mdvani), Marie Koenig; Jack Oakie, Jack Kesterson; Anita Page, Anita Pommer; Mary Pickford, Gladys Marie Smith; Marie Prevost, Marie Bickford; Dunn; Gilbert Roland, Louis Antonio Damaso De Alonzo; Raquel Torres, Paula Osterman; Virginia Valli, Virginia Sweeney; Alice White, Alva White; Florence Vidor, Florence Arlo.

For instance, who would ever think Dolores Del Rio was born in Mexico as Lolita Dolores Asunsolo de Martinez? And that the popular Richard Dix once was Mrs. Brimmer's little boy Ernest?

Hardly anyone in Hollywood ever heard of Asa Yoelzen but just let someone mention Al Jolson. They're one and the same. Lupe Velez, peppery dark-haired senorita, once upon a time was Miss Gaudahe Villalobos. The name of her tall, good-looking fiancé, Gary Cooper, really is Frank, but much less intriguing to screen fans.

Nick Stuart and Sue Carol are man and wife, young as they are, when they eloped to Ventura, Calif., last July Nick used his Roumanian cognomen, Niculae Pratzia and Sue signed the license as Evelyn Lederer Kiefer. No wonder the reporters failed to recognize them.

When Rasmus Karl Thelkerson Gottlieb first was given a job in pictures, the directors had a terrible time until they called a conference and decided Karl Dane was much easier to say.

John Gilbert, the dashing Romeo, is John Pringle, but no relation to Aileen Pringle, the actress. His wife, Ina Claire, was born as Ina Tuzen, Gilda Gray, the girl who made the shimmy famous on stage and screen, used to be called Marianna Michelska. Plisie Janis was a Rierbauer and Fannie Brice was one of the Boroch kids.

Before Nancy Carroll first became a chorus girl in New York they named her Nancy La Iff but in private life now she is Mrs. Jack Kirkland. Other film players and their real names are:

Mary Astor, Lucille Lanthanek; Mary Brian, Louis Dantzier; Evelyn Brent, Betty Rizzo; Sally Blane, Betty Jane Young; June

By RADIE HARRIS

Is called anything from Chevrolet to Cavalier. Prefers to be known as Chev-al-yay, but Paramount doesn't mind what you call him as long as you mention his name.
Born in Menilmontant, near
Paris, 35 years ago.
Ambition as a child was to become a circus clown. Suffered a sprained ankle and bruised face on the first day of his acrobatic monkeyshines. Decided to become a singer instead.

Was an electrician, printer, paint salesman, dollmaker and nailer before he landed a job at the Casino des Tonnelles, singing four evenings a week. Received magnificent sum of three francs an evening. Gave his mother two and saved the "rest" for spending money.

Mistinguette, famous musical comedy star, saw him one night and predicted a brilliant future for him. A few years later made her prophecy come true by choosing him as her dancing partner in "Folles Bergere."

Wounded in Battle
Interrupted his career by enlisting in 1913. Was severely wounded and held captive in German prison camp. Escaped months later by unofficially attaching himself to Red Cross unit. Still carries scar on left cheek from shrapnel wound.

Learned to speak English from a "Tommy" imprisoned with him.
Is now learning American slang from everyone who will teach him.
Invited into talkies by Jesse Lasky. Arrived in New York November, 1928, and was welcomed by Paramount with a party at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, costing $30,- 000.

His "million-dollar smile" is no mere figure of speech. Received $18,000 for eight days' work at the San Francisco Auto Show, singing two numbers twice a day.
Is the first actor who has ever been "given the air" at $5,000 a breath. Was recently paid that sum for fifteen minutes of song in a national radio hook-up. Has refused $25,000 for a week's vaudeville engagement at the Palace theatre in New York.

Never advertises in any theatrical sheet or sells his name for testimonial purposes.

It Is Folly To Stay Fat

The proof is everywhere. In every circle you can see that excess fat is disappearing fast. Modern science has found a major cause of excess fat in a weakened gland. In late years, physicians the world over have been fighting that cause.
They do not rely on starvation.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Each box contains the formula, as prepared by famous experts. People have used these tablets for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now nearly all have friends who show the results in new beauty, health and vigor.

Go try Marmola. Test the right way to reduce. The results will amaze and delight you. All druggists supply
Marmola at $1 a box.

Maurice Chevalier

Could be presented with all his suits gratis in Paris. But prefers to pay 18 pounds for them in Hanover Square, London.

Has only appeared in two pictures so far and is already giving established favorites a run for their reputation. Twenty-five per cent of his fan mail is written in French.
Hates cabarets and "night life."
Prefers the city to the country and his chateau in Southern France to any other place in the world.

Has a younger brother, who is as bad an actor as he is good.
Never buys jewelry. Carries lighter given him by Douglas Fairbanks.
Has refused all requests to appear at benefit performances anywhere, but has promised to donate his services to single performance before his return to France in the Spring. Proceeds will go to Actors' Fund of America and to hospital in Paris, which he maintains for disabled artists.
Thinks that a plate of vanilla and coffee ice cream mixed is the ten best reasons for living in America.
Is seen everywhere with his former dancing partner of the Casino de Paris, the dark and piquant Yvonne Vallee. Is now his best pal and severest critic—Mrs. Maurice Chev-al-yay.
